

EXERCISE I—Words in Context

From the list below, supply the words needed to complete the paragraph. Some words will not be used.

cliché extol adamant rancor
ostensible clement disparity

- A. I wish that I could _____ your recent work, but as the _____ goes, workers like you are a dime a dozen. I've been _____ by keeping you on the payroll despite your recent incompetence, but it must end now. The president is _____ about cutting unnecessary costs, so I'm afraid that I'm going to have to let you go.

From the list below, supply the words needed to complete the paragraph. Some words will not be used.

inexorable disparity opus diffident
ostensible clement rancor

- B. When the manager noticed the _____ between the amount of cash in the register and the total of the nightly bank deposit, he never suspected Yvonne. _____ and mild mannered, she nonetheless was a criminal with utmost _____ for the law. Stealing had been a[n] _____ part of her life for as long as she could remember, and she had no plans to correct her habits. She had the _____ belief that her crimes were works of art, and her latest _____ required a handful of stolen cash from her job at the restaurant.

Challenge: For the words the Words in Context exercise above, write ONE coherent sentence or paragraph using ALL of the words NOT utilized in the exercise.

EXERCISE I—Words in Context

From the list below, supply the words needed to complete the paragraph. Some words will not be used.

cliché extol adamant rancor
ostensible clement disparity

- A. I wish that I could _____ your recent work, but as the _____ goes, workers like you are a dime a dozen. I've been _____ by keeping you on the payroll despite your recent incompetence, but it must end now. The president is _____ about cutting unnecessary costs, so I'm afraid that I'm going to have to let you go.

From the list below, supply the words needed to complete the paragraph. Some words will not be used.

inexorable disparity opus diffident
ostensible clement rancor

- B. When the manager noticed the _____ between the amount of cash in the register and the total of the nightly bank deposit, he never suspected Yvonne. _____ and mild mannered, she nonetheless was a criminal with utmost _____ for the law. Stealing had been a[n] _____ part of her life for as long as she could remember, and she had no plans to correct her habits. She had the _____ belief that her crimes were works of art, and her latest _____ required a handful of stolen cash from her job at the restaurant.

Challenge: For the words the Words in Context exercise above, write ONE coherent sentence or paragraph using ALL of the words NOT utilized in the exercise.